NEW CABINET FORMATION SEEN

LONDON, June 3.—(U.P.)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin is expected to go to Windsor Castle Tuesday to place his resignation in the hands of King George.

Although there was no official confirmation it was understood that Baldwin had informed members of his cabinet of such a plan at a conference at No. 10 Downing street.

If Baldwin presents his resignation to the crown, he will be bound to suggest that the king ask Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the victorious Labor party, to form a new government immediately. The Labor party will have the strongest party in the next house of commons but will not have a majority over the conservatives and Liberals.

The Daily Express says that King George arranged tonight for an audience with Baldwin at noon Tuesday. It was understood MacDonald would visit Windsor castle Tuesday afternoon although no announcement is expected before Wednesday.

SOUTHWEST CROPS HIT BY SEVERE STORM, RAIN

KANSAS CITY, June 3.—(U.P.)—

The sun blazed down today for the first time in a week over parts of five southwestern states, illuminating scenes of broken buildings, mud-coated fields, flooded streams and damaged crops.

There had been a score of deaths by drowning during the period of violent rains in Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Damage to property and agriculture was reckoned at several million dollars and, in Kansas alone, it was estimated the reduction of corn acreage had virtually struck out from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 of the average yield.

What weathermen believed to be the end of the daily downpours came dramatically Sunday night in a mile-a-minute gale, accompanied by hail and sheets of rain. The storm moved into Kansas from northern Oklahoma and blustered unabated across the former state to Kansas City.

Twenty houses were tossed aside or damaged by the blinding storm at Hardtner and Kiowa in south central Kansas. Then it moved down on Wichita, striking harder at the municipal airport. Planes were tumbled across the fields, ripped to pieces and scattered disorder over adjoining lots. A trimotored Fokker passenger ship had landed from Los Angeles five minutes before the gale struck. It was a total loss. There were no injuries. Damage at Wichita will reach $500,000, it was believed.

The menace from flooding streams was concentrated mainly in southern Nebraska although rivers were at bankful stages in Oklahoma and the Kansas City area. Houston and Beaumont, Texas, tonight reported high waters had fallen and measures for rehabilitation were going forward following the sudden overflow of a system of small streams which sent muddy floods eddying into lower downtown streets.

FOURTH FETE PLANNED HERE

Two permits for alterations and repairs were obtained yesterday at the office of A. J. Hurley, city building inspector. Peter Losinski will alter a cottage on Eighth street between Ripley and Penn avenues at a cost of $500 and Steve Falconi will install a bay window in a home on South Thirty-eighth street, between Wall avenue and Cutting boulevard.

Boy Given Chance

CARL N. MAHAN, 6, sentenced by Kentucky judge to spend 15 years in reform school for slaying pal, 8, in fight over a piece of scrap iron, will be given another chance if an appeal now before the courts is approved. He is shown with his mother.

WHITE WAY PLANNED FOR 23RD STREET

Twenty-third street from Macdonald to the northern city limits is to be made a great white way, if the petition filed with the city council last night is granted.

A large number of property owners asked that a system of electric lights be installed on both sides of the street.

The signers of the petition stated they were willing to pay for the installation of the lights, and also bear 85 percent of the cost of maintenance.

LOWERY PERMANENT HEAD OF NEW CHARTER GROUP

Organized for the avowed purpose of reducing the cost of city government and for revising the present city charter or obtaining a new one, a group of Richmond taxpayers last night at a meeting in Brotherhood hall, elected E. B. Lowery permanent chairman of the organization. Committees to draft resolutions will be appointed at the next meeting of the organization, Monday night, when a name will be selected. Taxes, non-resident workers and the present form of city government were discussed by various taxpayers at the session last night. Living conditions and low taxes in other eastbay cities were held by F. Sanderson as some of the reasons that workers in Richmond industries lived out of town. He (Continued on Page 8)

LICENSE TO OPERATE ASKED

The automobile dealers of Richmond are asking the city council to protect them against the unfair competition of outside dealers who come into this city, rent a lot, and use them for the disposal of used cars. It is evident that an attempt is being made to use Richmond as the dumping ground for old cars by outside firms.

At the meeting of the council last night a communication was read from the Auto Dealers Association of Richmond, represented by 30 percent strong, in which it was asked that an ordinance be adopted to provide for a license fee for auto dealers with salesrooms of $25 per annum, and if a salesroom is conducted in connection with the salesroom, an additional fee of $25 per annum. The need for such a law is pointed out by the fact that dealers who are not conducting legitimate salesrooms, and having a permanent place of business a license of $500 per annum was asked.

The good faith of the Richmond auto dealers was shown by the fact that attached to the petitions were the checks of the different dealers to pay for the license asked.

A number of the dealers were present at the meeting and L. J. Thomas, acting as spokesman for them stated to the council, that what the dealers desired was protection against unfair competition. The dealers wanted the curbstone dealers done away with, and that kind of competition restricted. Thomas claimed it was not fair to the legitimate dealer who had his money invested in property here and paying taxes to permit outsiders to come in and conduct business without paying any of the expenses of city government.

The petition was referred to the city manager, the city attorney and the council as a whole for one week.

The dealers who asked that the ordinance be adopted and who signed the petition were: C. C. Kratzer, Buick dealer; C. Shumate, Chevrolet dealer; Harry S. Curry, Chrysler dealer; A. H. Westergaard, De Soto dealer; C. M. Conrith, Dodge dealer; David Rose, Ford dealer; La Franz Hillebrand company, Graham dealers; J. C. Warren, Durant dealer; J. P. Strom, Oakland-Pontiac dealer; Robert Miller, Oldsmobile dealer; Roy K. Dorr, Nash dealer and L. J. Thomas, Studebaker dealer.

MacKinnon Enters Plea Of Not Guilty

MARTINEZ, June 3.—A formal plea of not guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor was entered today by Justice of the Peace A. H. MacKinnon of El Cerrito.

Superior Judge H. V. Alvarado upon receipt of the plea fixed June 25, as the date for his trial and set his bail at $1000 bond which was posted by the El Cerrito Justice.

MacKinnon was indicted last week by the county grand jury. Transcript of the testimony presented before the inquisitorial body was filed with the county clerk today and reveals that Dr. A. H. Berde of Walnut Creek, who examined the justice after the arrest, testified that in his belief MacKinnon was under the influence of liquor.

MacKinnon appeared before the jury as a voluntary witness and declared that his condition was due to drinking several cups of black coffee and to high blood pressure.

T. M. Carlson, T. D. Johnston and Hugh Donovan are attorneys for the defendant.

The grand jury indictment replaces a charge preferred by State Traffic Officer Ed Keefe following the arrest of the justice six weeks ago on the Tunnell highway.

LITTLE ALLIED UNITY

More than ten years after the war ended, there is still a lack of co-operation among the allied nations, and the debate over what—if anything—Germany shall pay for the privilege of standing the world on its ear for four years.

The bustling world has forgotten not how many sessions the reparations experts have held in the present conference to adjust the financial affairs of the former enemies. But none of the meetings has been marked by unanimous thought on the part of the allies.

In the latest division of sentiment, the British and Japanese stood for accepting the whole offer of the Germans; French and Belgian delegates resisted and Italy and the United States were in a middle position.

The principal points dividing the Germans and their creditors are:

(1) Redemption of German marks imposed on Belgium during the war for which the allied memorandum demands 25,000,000 marks (about $6,000,000) a year for 37 years.

(2) The rejection by the allies of the German demand for the right to suspend payments inside Germany to the reparations agent during two years of half the protected part of the annuities, and,

(3) The insistence of the Germans that the powers successors to Austria-Hungary contribute to the reparations settlement in proportion to the amount they ought to pay on Austria-Hungary's debt.

The conversations of the past two days have turned on those questions without progress as far as developments go.

The Germans cling to their positions, refusing to accept the modifications made by the creditors in their draft report.

PLANE PERPLEXITY

Financiers have adopted aviation. It seems that they waited quite a spell before moving, but in comparison with the period they hung off from actively taking up the motor industry, they have shown admirable speed.

Experts in several lines of work are studying the present needs and future possibilities of commercial aviation, which has been sufficiently dramatized by the exploits of Lindbergh and a few others, to merit now the undivided efforts of powerful groups of bankers and industrialists. They want to know among other things whether the airplane will become a more mobile successor to the railroad train or to the automobile. In other words, will private ownership of airplanes—as in the case of the automobile—or public utilities be the chief factor in the market which factories and counting houses are seeking to exploit.

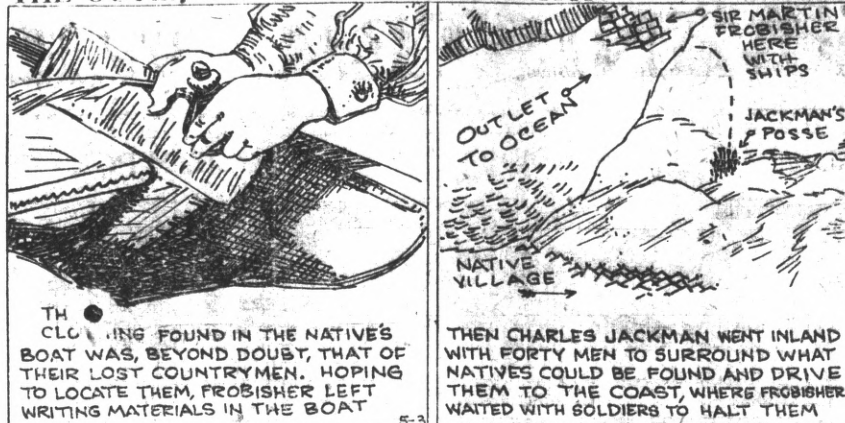

It is our opinion that the airplane will fill both needs. Understanding something of the enormous progress made in construction since the first ship flew, one can believe without a wrench that next decade's airplanes will be more suitable to the private owner than the present types, stronger, safer, more fool proof. Yet the airplane, owned and operated by responsible firms, will take over a substantial portion of the traffic now handled by railroads and to a less extent by bus lines.

Paralleling the development of aircraft and their handling, must come the construction of adequate airports. It will be within the next year or two that a town without a pretty good field cannot be found on the map of these United States. Bigger places will have better facilities, as is natural, but there are certain standard requirements for aviation fields that will not be lowered even in tiny hamlets.

The women used to wear hobble skirts so tight around the ankles they could hardly step. Now they wear 'em so tight around the hips that they can hardly sit.

Some of this year's bronc riders will go in for horse-shoe pitching, only Grace Sparkes opines that they will forget to unfasten the horses from the shoes.

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless. It works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Carbon-forming oils got an awful blow when "MODEL A" succeeded "MODEL T"!

motors
have no room for hard carbon!

Crowds jammed big auditoriums last year to see the new Fords. Their enthusiasm was justified. This really fine small car marked an epoch-making change.

IN the excitement of new models and new body-lines on so many different cars these last few seasons we've almost overlooked the greatest change of all—a change in motor design.

No longer are motors slow and inefficient, with big roomy spaces for carbon to gather. Pistons now reach almost to the cylinder head—within 1/32 of an inch in some motors.

Increased efficiency is the order of the day. It accounts for the greater power, economy, speed of the new cars. The new Fords you now see by hundreds get their power from such an improved motor.

Yet there are people who wish you'd never even heard of this change in motors.

They are the refiners of motor oils that form quantities of hard, gritty carbon. Such oils were bad enough in old-style roomy engines. They are ruinous in the newer cars!

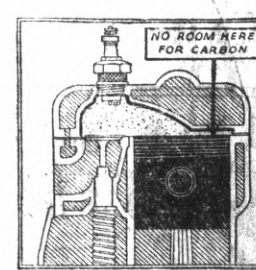

Hard carbon causes knocking, engine strain. Flakes chip off and grind through tight pistons and bearings. Particles get under valves, making them leak power, warp, burn quickly.

There is one motor oil, however, that lubrication engineers pronounce ideal for present day lubrication. It actually forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as even the costliest oils sold! The little it does form is just a soft soot carried away easily by the exhaust.

It is Shell Motor Oil. The new high-vacuum process by which it is made gives it other important qualities, too. It withstands violent temperature changes which would break down old-style oils. It holds its body—not only when it is cool but under the intense heat inside a high-compression motor.

Once you begin using Shell Motor Oil you'll tolerate no other kind.

Beneath the hood of the new Ford is a sturdy modern motor. It will give you wonderful service, sustained high speed, long life—but remember that there is no room in it for the handful of hard carbon which old-style oils would soon deposit.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

Shell 400, the "dry" gas, is made "dry" to protect your oil from the crankcase dilution caused by ordinary "wet" gasolines. Even Shell Motor Oil can be ruined by thinning with "wet" gasoline.

Tacna, Arica Pact Signed

LIMA, Peru, June 3.—(U.P.)—Peru and Chile signed the Tacna-Arica province settlement treaty today, ending a 45 year old dispute over possession of the two border provinces.

The treaty was signed by Ambassador Emiliano Figueroa-Larrea for Chile and Pedro Rada y Camio, foreign minister, for Peru. The treaty, which was handled through the offices of the president of the United States as mediator, settled a question arising after the Chilean-Peruvian war of 1880. The main provision of the treaty returns Tacna province to Peru and permits Chile to retain Arica.

3 MUSKETEERS RIDING AGAIN

D'Artagnan and the three musketeers are riding once more. Douglas Fairbanks in "The Iron Mask" is a sequel to his story of "The Three Musketeers" again Fairbanks is playing Dumas' swash-buckling hero of the seventeenth century.

The scene of the picture is laid in France during the latter part of the reign of Louis XIII and the first years of the reign of the young Louis XIV. The story opens with the birth of the heir to the throne of France, and carries through the years of his boyhood to the early period of his rulership. In the second part of the picture, D'Artagnan and his three faithful friends, Athos, Porthos and Aramis, grown older but still adventuresome, wield their swords in defense of the young king as loyally as they served his father.

Months of careful preparation were spent in perfecting every detail of the production before starting the actual filming of the picture. Mammoth sets have been built for this great film—exact reproductions of the Palace of St. Germain, of the Carmelite convent and of French streets and buildings as they appeared in the seventeenth century. Under the personal supervision of M. Maurice Lafor, the world's greatest authority on the customs, manners and costumes of that period, every phase of the life of the France of that time is reproduced with historical accuracy.

In addition to Fairbanks, several members of the cast are playing the parts they created in the first story of D'Artagnan and his fellows. Marguerite de la Motte is again Constantine, the object of D'Artagnan's devotion. Cardinal Richelieu is being played by Leon Barry, who returned to the past of Athos, Lord Poff to that of the Planchet. The rest of the cast includes Gino Corrado as Porthos, Stanley J. Sanford as Aramis, Ulrich Haupt as De Rohan, Rolfe Sedan as Louis XIII, William Bakewell as the young Louis XIV, Dorothy Revier as Madame Peronne and Otto Matiesen as the Conspirator.

Allan Dwan, who has directed other Fairbanks pictures, again holds the megaphone with his assistant.

Antioch Runaway Girl Tries Death In Eastern Town

MARTINEZ, June 3.—Following her apprehension in Lima Creek, Mo., Nellie Gatter, 16, Antioch high school girl who disappeared from her home a month ago, drank a quantity of concentrated lye, according to advices received here today by the sheriff's office.

No motive for the girl drinking the poison was ascribed in the report received from Sheriff E. L. Libby. A minor charge has been placed against her, necessitating her appearance in court upon her recovery.

The sheriff's office here, upon request of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gatter, launched a search for the missing girl. She was traced to San Bernardino county but nothing more was heard of her until she was located in the Missouri town. The parents are unable to ascribe any motive for the girl running away.

MURDER FARM SEARCH FAILS

VISALIA, June 3.—(U.P.)—Failure to find evidence to press a "murder farm" prosecution against G. F. Franklin of Sacramento, proposed as a possibility by Sacramento authorities after statements by four of Franklin's children, was reported by Sheriff Robert L. Hill late today.

Complete investigation of the farm near here from which Franklin's wife and nine-year-old son disappeared six years ago has not uncovered a single bit of evidence that might implicate the father, Hill said.

Three bones found by deputies who dug up ground about the place proved by chemical analysis to be from an animal, the sheriff said.

Hill advised Sacramento authorities that his investigation had been completed without any sign of law violation and suggested the Sacramento officials proceed with charges of immorality brought against Franklin by three of his daughters.

NOAH'S ARK

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. NOAH'S ARK, starring Dolores Costello and featuring George O'Brien, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel. It is based upon the scenario by Darryl Francis Zanuck.

On a Continued train three friends, Ivan Armand, and Emil, invite a French girl, Marie, to share their compartment, but a priest and two Americans, Travis and Al, interrupt the flirtation. The train is wrecked and Travis rescues the girl. The travelers find a mysterious inn. That night the three friends quarrel violently over the girl. Suddenly a group of German soldiers arrive, announcing: War is imminent! Emil, furious with his friends, denounces them as spies. But Armand and Ivan escape. While Al, Travis and Marie, have bribed the maid, Hilda, to get them a horse and cart to make their escape.

"Don't talk so much and hurry up. We're damn lucky to be out of this alive," Travis returned. "This is for you, Mademoiselle." He reached into his pocket and drew out several large bills and handed them to the astonished Hilda. "Tell her we thank her for getting us out of that hole," he turned to Marie. "If she hadn't known the way down those back stairs we never would have got out alive." He swung himself up onto the seat and picked up the reins. In a torrent of Austrian patois the girl was thanking Travis for the money. She pulled up her skirt and shoved the bills down an inner pocket.

"All set, Al?" Travis looked over his shoulder at his companion who was swinging up on the back of the cart. "Let 'er go, bozo, and the quicker the better." He shrugged as the rifles resounded in a series of shots. Travis slapped the horse over the back with his reins and the trio started off with a jerk.

CHAPTER VII
War! and the beginnings of war! War that was to draw at last the greatest nations of the world into conflict! Screaming black letters had terrified across white pages. Markets rose and fell in wild panic. Grave diplomats held frenzied convulsions. Whirling machinery began an endless day-and-night activity. Small, everyday matters of life that had once seemed so important suddenly became of no importance. All thoughts turned in one direction; all hearts beat to one rhythm—war!

Paris, the peaceful city that for so long had lain dreaming in the warm sun, nursing its soft, green river close to its heart, turned in one brief moment into a madhouse of seething turbulence. Paris, a city inflamed with the turmoil of a national crisis . . . mad with the thrill of impending danger . . . a wild whirlpool of hysterical gaiety forced round and round by the undecurrent of approaching disaster . . . a tranquil leaf tossed on the onrushing tide . . . war!

From the very top of Montmartre on the right bank, where the rounded, white, upstanding domes of the Sacre-Coeur spire to bursting against the sky, to Montparnasse on the left bank, where broad boulevards with their avenues of spreading trees sheltered vagrant lovers, strolling their arms about each others' waists, ran delicious riot. From the Arc de Triomphe stationed like a general inspecting processions of automobiles, and horse cabs on the Champs Elysees, across to the two annoyingly-flat towers of Notre Dame, bedlam held sway. And in the center of it all the de la Cite, where at its very termination Henry IV, astride his bronze horse, gazing meditatively out over the Place Dauphine.

And where, where soldiers . . . soldiers . . . They appeared as though by magic, springing from the ground fully uniformed. Tall Zeuses in blue and yellow boleros with their breezy trousers tucked into low boot tops, their red capes swung back over their shoulders. Bewhiskered French officers with brilliant red sashes in the city and with the red epaulettes and red trousers. The Chasseurs Alpins in marine-blue, their small berets perched on the sides of their heads. The Spahis, bearded Arabs, the sky-blue culottes and the red cape. The Dragons with the red eolote and the white caucous with the waving horse-hair tails.

At the Gare d'Est an incoming train disgorged a host of anxious, fear-stricken warriors of travelers. The removal of war brought back in a hurry the vacationists, as well as the aliens who sought the refuge of a large city and all its perquisites in this time of stress. Pressing their way through the crowd, unburdened by baggage, Marie, Travis and Al forced their way into the street. "Say this is a mad-house!" Travis caught hold of Marie's arm as a group of people, running, almost knocked her over. "It looks as though it's going to be some war, all right."

"You said it, bozo!" Al looked about at the conglomerate mass of humanity writhing through the city. "Say this is a great, big, old-fashioned war, all right. The excitement began to permeate his spirit. 'How about a little drink—just to help celebrate?'"

"If you please, I like very much to see my father," Marie interposed. "His studio it is very near. We came back later."

"Sure, I know," Travis agreed. "We'll go to your place first, and then we can come back. We'd better get a taxi."

"We never find a cab tonight," Marie shook her head. "I know, when there is celebration every body ride in a cab. It is better we walk." She pulled at Travis' arm and turned to leave.

"I guess you're right, Marie," the man concluded. "Come on, Al."

The three started up the broad street, arm in arm, lest they lose one another. Through the surging, restless mobs they piloted their steps, pushed this way and that by the careless, careless revelers. But the whole atmosphere was transferring his exhilaration to Al. He wanted to step in and become a part of the celebration himself.

"Aw, listen," he pleaded. "You two go on ahead and leave me here. I want to have some fun. I'll stay at this café." He pointed to a large, brilliantly lighted place with innumerable small tables set out on the sidewalk and from which much laughter, altercation and noise in general emanated. "I'll be all right by myself—and I won't leave here until you come back. But he sure you come back for me, because I get lost all alone here—Gosh!"

"Go ahead, Al, and we'll come back for you, then," Travis agreed. Travis and Marie followed the broad lighted boulevard until they reached the corner, and then at Marie's direction they turned off into a narrow side-street where old houses leaned forward with a slightly rakish air as though bowing across at each other. One of the lamp illuminated the thoroughfare, leaving the shadows in impenetrable blackness. The sidewalks were little more than curbstones, and Marie and Travis walked in the slightly wider, cobble-stoned street.

They walked in silence for a few moments and then the girl spoke. "I hope my father is here," she began wistfully. "It makes a long time now I do not see him here. He is an artist, my father," she added proudly. "But now he is not well, and he is able to paint only a little. He teaches me but I do not paint very good."

"What do you do, then?" Travis asked, his curiosity becoming more and more aroused.

"Me? I play piano. That is why I am in Vienna," Marie explained. "I prefer piano to painting. My mother she was very good at piano. She played in concert. So my father, he send me to Vienna to study. But I am so lonesome, and so I come back to Paris for a while. Now, I don't know. If there is war, I cannot go back until it is over. But maybe it is that it does not last long."

"Oh, I guess you'll be able to go back pretty soon," Travis assured her confidently. "Everything ought to be over in a couple of months. There's always a war going on some place in Europe. It's like Mexico."

"I don't know," The girl looked doubtful. "Maybe—Oh, but here is where I live!" she exclaimed suddenly, turning into a narrow passageway.

Travis followed his guide through a small dark aperture that quickly led to a courtyard paved with cobblestones. All the houses around the yard were as dark as those on the street. In the faint light of a lantern he saw that he could make out studio windows on the top floors of the dwellings.

LINDYS STILL MISSING, OHUM!

NEW YORK, June 3.—(UP)—The search for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride, after lagging apathetically the last few days, was resumed tonight with its former enthusiasm.

The claim of two residents of Block Island, R. I., that they had seen and positively identified the shy young aviator as he piloted the harbor there Saturday night, was a motor cruiser, with drawn curtains, aroused journalistic pursuers once more, and patrols were organized along the New England coast.

While pursuers were advancing upon a remote island off the coast of Georgia last Saturday night, a tall blonde young man wearing black goggles came ashore at Block Island, R. I., to buy gasoline, bread, and eggs.

W. R. Clark, who works at the Jiles Dune Fish Market at Block Island harbor, said the dark goggles did not fool him. Clark helped put aboard 140 gallons of fuel for the cabin cruiser, the name of which he noticed was "Moulette." Clark said the young man was the only one in sight. He supposed that the former Miss Anne Spencer Morrow was hidden in the cabin.

Also on the pier at the time the "Moulette" docked was Capt. Louis Rounds of the motorboat Elizabeth Ann, which piles between Block Island and the mainland. He, like Clark, refused to be fooled by the goggles. Neither could he get working up over the fact that he was standing in the presence of so famous a personage as the flyer.

Captain Rounds said Colonel Lindbergh admitted his identity when he turned disappointedly that the smoked glasses were a poor disguise. Lindbergh told him, he said, that the "Moulette" was on the way to Boston but Rounds did not press the visitor for details.

Americans Pay Large Sum For Luxury, Sport

Americans pay the huge sum of $21,045,000 a year for luxury and diversion, as shown by a compilation of estimates and reports of the department of Commerce. Sales of cigars, candy, perfumes and other commodities have increased by six and ten and more since before the war.

Among the principal items are the $2,500,000,000 spent annually on automobiles. Next comes the cigar with $562,000,000, supplanting pipes and cigars, an increase of nearly six times the $96,000,000 spent on cigars in 1914, due largely to the new method of toasting and blending and to women smoking as a dietary aid.

The American sweet tooth is becoming sweeter. Since 1914 confectionery has more than doubled in value from $153,600,000 to nearly $392,000,000. Radio increased nearly twenty-five times, from $8,000,000 in 1914 to $191,800,000 and has caused a decline in sale of pianos. The pre-war value of ice cream was about $6,000,000 and now it is $301,500,000, almost six times greater. Jewelry more than doubled in the same period, from $31,000,000 to about $165,000,000 and perfume and similar products increased more than eleven fold from $16,900,000 to $177,400,000.

Billion Invested In Auto Industry

The capital invested in the motor vehicle manufacturing industry in 1928 reached a total of $1,965,310,508 reports the National Automobile club. During the same period the wages and salaries totaled $712,567,007 while the number employed, directly and indirectly, reached 4,341,138.

DEATH LETTER HELD LINK TO SLAYING

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 3.—UP—A farewell letter written by Mrs. Catherine Cassler while she awaited execution in a Chicago death cell reappeared today—one month after she had escaped the noose—to throw suspicion on her in the "swamp murder" of Camela Soutar, "Butterfly Girl" who stole the love of her husband.

The letter, apparently intended by the writer to have been published after she was to have been hanged for the murder of William Lindstrom, bared the bitterness of the 40-year-old wife, scorned by her husband for the youth and attractiveness of the 24-year-old stage dancer and skater.

While Mrs. Cassler definitely denied all responsibility for the young woman's death, the letter was turned over to Coroner E. H. Miller to be used with other circumstantial evidence as a basis for holding Mrs. Cassler.

Coroner Miller opened the inquest today into the slaying of the young dancing girl whose body, with a bullet in the heart and the head crushed, was found last Thursday in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., former home of Mrs. Cassler.

Suspected by Mrs. Cassler her adopted son, Edward, 14, who was left on the Cassler porch in a basket when he was two weeks old.

The letter was only accusation for the unfaithful husband and Cameola who "had the courage and the nerve to come to the jail and tell me of her relations with my husband when there was two feet of screen between us."

Wed At 14
Mrs. Cassler wrote that she was married to Truman Cassler when she was 14 and gave a brief account of her life.

"God only knows what my life with him has been," she wrote. "He promised me things but failed to keep them. I stayed on, hoping against hope that he would do better but the more I made, the more he spent."

"Women have always meant more or less in his life. Many times I paid his fine when he had been arrested with some woman. It was my hard earned money."

"Then after I was arrested (in connection with the Lindstrom murder for which she was sentenced to die and later freed) he waited just two days to take a woman into the house. He gave her my valuables, all my electric working things, all my best linens and dishes and my diamond ring. Can anyone imagine my feeling when all this came to me?"

"Then he took another woman in and threw Edward out, a mere child of 14. This woman is still with him. He kicked her husband out after a few days. He never sends me a bit to eat. He sold all my furniture. He told me he was getting a divorce from me to marry her."

"The last woman's name is Cameola, better known as Babe."

Farwell Letter
Thus read Mrs. Cassler's farwell letter which she intended to bare after her death the infidelity of her husband "who lives with Cam" as his housekeeper.

The first witness at the inquest today, Miss Lily Mallott, girl chum of Cameola, told of the meetings between Cassler and Miss Soutar and how he finally took the girl to his home as "housekeeper" during his wife's absence. Miss Mallott told of Cameola leaving her last Monday to go to the Cassler home to "fix things up with Mrs. Cassler."

Crockett Man Hunted After Murder Found

STUDENTS GET 'INJUNCTION' DIPLOMAS

DES MOINES, June 3.—(UP)—Sixty members of the senior class of Des Moines university today received "injunction diplomas" at the commencement exercises held under an order of the district court preventing interference by the board of trustees.

The "injunction diplomas" were prepared hastily to replace those that disappeared from the home of George Newcombe, business manager of the school.

Dean E. C. Callaway of the college of pharmacy, who signed the degrees in place of Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the board, assured the students they would receive their credits for the year's work.

KING'S CONDITION REPORTED BETTER

WINDSOR, England, June 3.—(U.P.)—King George's satisfactory condition continued today as his sixty-fourth birthday was celebrated quietly at Windsor castle.

The royal physicians announced that his majesty had a comfortable day with considerable periods of restful sleep and it was understood he would be well enough to receive Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin if the defeated conservative leader offers his resignation immediately.

There had been some doubt as to whether Baldwin, whose party was defeated in last week's election, would resign and suggest that the King ask the Labor party leader, Ramsay MacDonald, to form a cabinet it was said the Prime Minister might delay his resignation until later because of the king's relapse but it was believed he had been reassured on Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Stanley Hewett and Dr. Henry L. Martin, who have been in attendance on his majesty here, visited the sick chamber this afternoon. The abscess which formed on the right side is still draining but it was emphasized that progress from the relapse must be slow. Any change will be gradual and not marked, it was said. A salute of 21 guns in honor of the king's anniversary was fired at noon.

Chemists Tell Story

Months ago Shell Oil company officials asked the company's laboratories if a better line of household products than any already on the market could be produced. It would have been easy to duplicate the usual dry cleaners and fly sprays and furniture polishes, but Shell was not content to do that. Hundreds of thousands of people who rely on the unusual qualities of Shell 400, the "dry" gasoline, and Shell motor oil confidently expect that any Shell product will be the best that can be produced by science. So Shell chemists were told to spare no expense in developing household specialties that would uphold the Shell tradition.

And today these chemists, the men who actually did the work on the new products, are telling you about them.

W. K. Smith, research chemist, describes Shell dry cleaner and why it is better.

"A dry cleaner is a solvent,"

SHELL EXPERTS TELL ABOUT PRODUCTS

When you see a new product on the market, wouldn't it be great to know what the men who actually created it say about it?

You don't often get such confidential information. But here is one time that you do. No vague terms or meaningless descriptions are used in announcing the new household specialties just created by the Shell laboratories. The research chemists who know exactly what these specialties contain and why they are superior to ordinary products tell you in precise terms all about them.

Auto Polish

"The fine Duco finishes on motor cars today require actual polishing to remove road grime and restore original luster," reports W. J. Yates, research chemist. "Shell auto polish will do a better, quicker, safer job than any I know."

"Shell spring oil," says S. T. Surtees, control chemist "easy to use from the long-spouted can, will be found the surest way to stop squeaks, protect springs, and make riding easier."

Easily Cleaned

"We have developed a lubricant that washes out of fabrics with only warm soapsuds—a real advantage."

"We wanted Shell lighter fluid to catch fire quickly, to burn with a strong flame, to burn cleanly," says J. McLaren, department head in the Shell laboratories. "We have found just the proper mixture."

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3 (U.P.)—Baseball critics were hesitant tonight in picking probable winners of series to be played in the Pacific Coast league this week for games are among the most important that have been played this season.

The league leading San Francisco Missions were traveling south to meet a team that has given them strong opposition this year, the Los Angeles Angels. The Angels will undoubtedly throw their full strength into every contest as they face the possibility of slipping out of the first division.

Another match destined to have effect on the standings of the leaders will be Hollywood against the San Francisco Seals. The Seals are in second place and the Sheiks have just climbed into fourth position, two and one half games behind the Angels.

Seattle, victorious in four out of seven games against Los Angeles last week, is conceded a good chance against Sacramento in the series starting at the state capital Tuesday and Portland should give Oakland some trouble in the Oakland park.

WEED BURNING ORDERED BY EL CERRITO

On the recommendation of Street Commissioner Phil A. Lee the council of El Cerrito at its meeting Monday ordered that notices be posted notifying the property owners that the weeds must be cleared off in five days after the posting or the city will burn the weeds and assess the cost against the property.

This action, Lee stated was taken every year by the council to lessen the fire hazard during the summer months.

A. R. Allen, of El Cerrito, was awarded the contract for the grading of Arlington boulevard from its present termination to Cutting boulevard, he contract was for $1440.

Complaint that the Hutchinson Co. was using too heavy charge in blasting in their quarry was referred to Chief of Police R. R. Cheek with instruction to notify them to lessen the charges used or the council would take action to regulate the blasting.

Request of the American Legion for the city to purchase flags for street decoration that would cost approximately $130 was referred to City Attorney J. J. Peters, to see if the city could legally make the purchase.

Street Commissioner Phil A. Lee was granted permission to purchase stencils to make street signs. The cost of the stencils will be approximately $20.

Chief of Police R. R. Cheek was granted permission to take a two weeks vacation beginning June 10.

No action will be taken by the council of El Cerrito on the passing of an ordinance regulating the use of the parkways on San Pablo avenue by the fruit merchants unless they refuse to conform to the request of the city to have uniform stands which be placed at a designated distance from the curb, according to the report of Councilman Phil A. Lee which was accepted by the council.

An effort to open another street on the east side of San Pablo avenue between Stockton avenue and Fink Lane is being made by Street Commissioner Phil A. Lee who stated that he was negotiating for right of ways over private property at the present time and would have a final report in about one month.

Action on a letter from the Pacific Coast association of Fire Chiefs requesting that El Cerrito send Fire Chief Arthur Byrd to the convention to be held in Vancouver from July 23 to July 26 was laid over for one week to find out the amount of expenses for the trip. Chief Byrd offered to pay one half of the expense if the council would sanction the trip.

Rum Runners Taken In Bay

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—(U.P.)—A speedy motorboat operated by two men and carrying 300 cases of liquor from a ship anchored outside the three mile limit was captured by coast guard cutters as it sought to slip through the Golden Gate shortly before dawn today.

The speed trawler 4114 submitted to orders of the coast guard cutter Gavista without struggle. Its crew, George Ames, 31, and Robert E. Hicks, 33, were arrested and taken to federal building for questioning. They refused to name the ship with which they connected.

said that the same conditions were faced by San Francisco. He suggested a new charter as a means of overcoming handicaps.

Salaries Scored
Lowery declared that under the present form of government taxpayers cannot expect business men to devote their time to city work for the small salaries offered.

"If we had a charter whereby we could pay councilmen a decent salary we could expect business men to give the same service that they devote to their own affairs. I am not seeking political office. I was defeated on my platform in the last election and probably would be defeated again."

"But I still stand for reduction in taxes and a revision of the city charter."

He called attention to the work now being done along the same lines by Sacramento, San Leandro and other cities.

Home Ownership Urged
F. J. Drummond asked for conditions whereby the working man would be benefited in owning a home in Richmond.

"If you haven't homes, you haven't business," he declared in speaking of the complaint registered by Richmond businessmen in regard to residents going elsewhere to do their shopping.

A plea for reduction in taxes was made by J. E. Walker as a means of attracting the workingman to live in Richmond.

State Treasury Faces Million Dollar Loss

Authorities on taxation said the situation as it now stands virtually meant that some of the state's leading banks would not have to pay taxes. Ray Riley, state controller, declared the high court's ruling practically nullified California's effort to comply with the federal statute regarding national bank taxation, formation of which cost the state thousands of dollars.

Governor Young admitted that practically the only panacea would be a successful appeal to congress to alter the federal laws. He said the purpose of calling the commission's members here was to determine if any other method was available.

"There is nothing our legislature can do and it would be full to call them in special session," the governor said. "Our appeal, apparently, must now be to congress as we are powerless, having exhausted our last resource."

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge had been asked by state attorney general to represent the state in a petition for rehearing by the supreme court.

The 12 Points In Richmond's Program!

Three years ago a comprehensive program of industrial and harbor development was outlined. Every step taken since then has been a step to carry out our main objectives. Let us see what that program is:

1. Securing a new major industry.
2. Voting harbor bonds.
3. Acquisition of land that might be made available for a major industry.
4. Getting rights of way for railroads to the inner harbor.
